

Four shaft, 36inch floor loom made by George and John B Maxwell

For sale - a four shaft, 36inch floor loom made by George and John B Maxwell that has not been used for 30 years, together with reeds, winders, a warping frame and other small items.

It is in need of some TLC and probably all the heddles and strings need replacing.

I have no idea of price, I paid £100 for it 30 years ago but never had either time or space to set it up to use, but it did belong to a weaving friend of my wife's parents who kindly sold it to me when I first had the idea of starting to weave.

I am now looking to sell this and all the equipment. As it is quite heavy and cumbersome, so if sold, it will need to be viewed and carried away by the buyer.

I must emphasise that the loom does need some TLC and some if not most of the strings will need replacing; there is a heddle making frame with the equipment.
